Moderato

In Ho-no-La-in town, a man known miles a-round
Some Suff-rage got a long way down, to Ho-no-La-in town

Has turned things upside down. They call him Old Bill Bailey;
Among those girls of brown, They tried a "Suffrage Movement!"

Bill Bailey won his fame with his old guitar
The meetings that they held never lasted long

Ukulele is his name— in that land a far.
The Old Bill Bailey broke them up— when he played a song.

Ships 'way out at sea— Can hear his melody.
Suffrage they don't care— There's other "Hula Hula" there.

CHORUS

When Old Bill Bailey plays the Ukulele
Down in Honolulu they do the "Hula Hula."
Every evening there they are,
sway in' while he's playin' his Hawaiian guitar. The rag-time motion even has the ocean bobbin' up and down, Sometimes a whale gets feeling flip Wags his tail and sinks a hot-tle ship When Old Bill Bailey plays the Ukulele Down in Honolulu town.
