Good-bye Broadway, Hello France!

March

Good-bye New-York town, good-bye Miss Liberty,
Your Vive
Pur-suing is the cry across the sea

Light of freedom will guide us across the sea,
We've united in this flight for liberty
France sent us a soldier,

Bid-ding good-bye,
Every soldier's mother drying her eye
Brave La Fayette
Whose deeds and fame we cannot forget

Cheer up we'll soon be there,
Singing this Yankee air:
Now that we have the chance
We'll pay our debt to France

We're going to square our debt to you, We're going to help you win this war.

Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here

Here's a song you think you know. But did you ever hear the version or did you ever see the movie? It's all here and it's all the sort of stuff that puts pep into everybody. One of the greatest marching refrains ever written—and just as good as a foot-trot or a step. By D. A. Forbes, Theodore Milan, and Arthur Sullivan.

Homeward Bound

Your skin will be perfectly thick if this song doesn't get down under your skin. You can use our handkerchief coming home, you can see Victory, you can see the joy of duty nobly done, and the world at peace again.

The melody—it's the right one for this watchful, song. By Howard Johnson, Coleman Custa, and George W. Meyer.
