Jean,

This reads very well to me. In your remarks, you could emphasize again that the report covers the reactions of each student and not necessarily the reactions of the other students. In other words, if students present were misinformed about conditions, the report has not