Dear Mr. Meredith,

Someone once said, "I give me men to match my mountains." You are, indeed, a mountains-type man.

I can only admire your courage and quiet determination; it is impossible for me to empathize. However, I can now understand why the years of segregation and its evils produced "fighters" who have been taught to bear latent the segregation to know what an invaluable asset this would one day become. We can now take the necessary abuse in our struggle for full citizenship.

Thank you, Mr. Meredith. "Keep on keeping on."

Sincerely yours,

Jeanett Jackson
