GRADUATION CEREMONIES HELD AT PINEY WOODS COUNTRY LIFE SCHOOL

The new rock amphitheater, rebuilt after last February's tornado, was the setting for the 1959 commencement of the famed Piney Woods Country Life School. At left is Joseph E. Ford, dressed in the national costume of his native Ethiopia, who is attending the school on a special scholarship. He is shown with his mother, the treasurer of Piney Woods and a former student herself. Second photo: Dr. Lawrence C. Jones, founder of the school. Third from left: Bennie Windham demonstrates tile laying methods learned at Piney Woods School. Right photo: Demess Jones of Jackson, left, and Gloria Moore of Brookhaven, right, prepare a meal to demonstrate more of the practical skills learned at the school.—Daily News Staff Photos by Norm Bergama.

JACKSON DAILY NEWS
Mississippi's Greatest Newspaper
STATE FINAL

8TH YEAR—VOL. 73—NO. 168

THE WEST

Covering the CROSSROADS

with

Jim Ward

President Eisenhower has given the senior class at the State Air Force Academy five advice, "Make sure your feet don't get too cold, and you'll be a long, happy travel-life. Pray that your医药
and in the final analysis do all to keep smiling."

GRADUATION CEREMONIES HELD AT PINEY WOODS COUNTRY LIFE SCHOOL

The new rock amphitheater, rebuilt after last February's
the school is different from the "straight of life". The school is different from the "straight of life", said
Dr. Lawrence C. Jones, the chairman and president of the school. The school is different from the "straight of life", he said, because it is unique. The school is unique in its approach to education. The school is unique in its approach to education.

BRICKMAKING SKILLS DEMONSTRATED

William L. Walker (left) and Leon Grove (right) handle the brickmaking ma-
echanicals and left the soft brick at the end of their demonstration. Students at Piney Woods have made bricks used in every building on the school campus.

The new rock amphitheater, rebuilt after last February's tornado, was the setting for the 1959 commencement of the famed Piney Woods Country Life School. At left is Joseph E. Ford, dressed in the national costume of his native Ethiopia, who is attending the school on a special scholarship. He is shown with his mother, the treasurer of Piney Woods and a former student herself. Second photo: Dr. Lawrence C. Jones, founder of the school. Third from left: Bennie Windham demonstrates tile laying methods learned at Piney Woods School. Right photo: Demess Jones of Jackson, left, and Gloria Moore of Brookhaven, right, prepare a meal to demonstrate more of the practical skills learned at the school.—Daily News Staff Photos by Norm Bergama.

VACCINATION TIME AT COMMENCEMENT

Other Rogers (left) and Jefferson Ross, right, work together to show the quickest way of vaccinating a pig during commencement exercises at Piney Woods School. Vaccination is only one of the many practical skills learned at the school.—Daily News Staff Photos by Norm Bergama.

THO THE RED SHELLS HITTIN MATSU AT GENEVA MAY BE AIRMED

TRUST THE RED SHELLS FIND OUT THE WEST AN'T NEAR THAT EASY TAMED

THO THE RED SHELLS HITTIN MATSU AT GENEVA MAY BE AIRMED

TRUST THE RED SHELLS FIND OUT THE WEST AN'T NEAR THAT EASY TAMED

THE WEST

Covering the CROSSROADS

with

Jim Ward

President Eisenhower has given the senior class at the State Air Force Academy five advice, "Make sure your feet don't get too cold, and you'll be a long, happy travel-life. Pray that your pharmacy
and in the final analysis do all to keep smiling."

GRADUATION CEREMONIES HELD AT PINEY WOODS COUNTRY LIFE SCHOOL

The new rock amphitheater, rebuilt after last February's
the school is different from the "straight of life". The school is different from the "straight of life", said
Dr. Lawrence C. Jones, the chairman and president of the school. The school is different from the "straight of life", he said, because it is unique. The school is unique in its approach to education. The school is unique in its approach to education.

BRICKMAKING SKILLS DEMONSTRATED

William L. Walker (left) and Leon Grove (right) handle the brickmaking ma-
echanicals and left the soft brick at the end of their demonstration. Students at Piney Woods have made bricks used in every building on the school campus.

The new rock amphitheater, rebuilt after last February's tornado, was the setting for the 1959 commencement of the famed Piney Woods Country Life School. At left is Joseph E. Ford, dressed in the national costume of his native Ethiopia, who is attending the school on a special scholarship. He is shown with his mother, the treasurer of Piney Woods and a former student herself. Second photo: Dr. Lawrence C. Jones, founder of the school. Third from left: Bennie Windham demonstrates tile laying methods learned at Piney Woods School. Right photo: Demess Jones of Jackson, left, and Gloria Moore of Brookhaven, right, prepare a meal to demonstrate more of the practical skills learned at the school.—Daily News Staff Photos by Norm Bergama.

VACCINATION TIME AT COMMENCEMENT

Other Rogers (left) and Jefferson Ross, right, work together to show the quickest way of vaccinating a pig during commencement exercises at Piney Woods School. Vaccination is only one of the many practical skills learned at the school.—Daily News Staff Photos by Norm Bergama.

THO THE RED SHELLS HITTIN MATSU AT GENEVA MAY BE AIRMED

TRUST THE RED SHELLS FIND OUT THE WEST AN'T NEAR THAT EASY TAMED

THO THE RED SHELLS HITTIN MATSU AT GENEVA MAY BE AIRMED

TRUST THE RED SHELLS FIND OUT THE WEST AN'T NEAR THAT EASY TAMED

THE WEST

Covering the CROSSROADS

with

Jim Ward

President Eisenhower has given the senior class at the State Air Force Academy five advice, "Make sure your feet don't get too cold, and you'll be a long, happy travel-
life. Pray that your pharmacy
and in the final analysis do all to keep smiling."

GRADUATION CEREMONIES HELD AT PINEY WOODS COUNTRY LIFE SCHOOL

The new rock amphitheater, rebuilt after last February's
the school is different from the "straight of life". The school is different from the "straight of life", said
Dr. Lawrence C. Jones, the chairman and president of the school. The school is different from the "straight of life", he said, because it is unique. The school is unique in its approach to education. The school is unique in its approach to education.

BRICKMAKING SKILLS DEMONSTRATED

William L. Walker (left) and Leon Grove (right) handle the brickmaking ma-
echanicals and left the soft brick at the end of their demonstration. Students at Piney Woods have made bricks used in every building on the school campus.

The new rock amphitheater, rebuilt after last February's tornado, was the setting for the 1959 commencement of the famed Piney Woods Country Life School. At left is Joseph E. Ford, dressed in the national costume of his native Ethiopia, who is attending the school on a special scholarship. He is shown with his mother, the treasurer of Piney Woods and a former student herself. Second photo: Dr. Lawrence C. Jones, founder of the school. Third from left: Bennie Windham demonstrates tile laying methods learned at Piney Woods School. Right photo: Demess Jones of Jackson, left, and Gloria Moore of Brookhaven, right, prepare a meal to demonstrate more of the practical skills learned at the school.—Daily News Staff Photos by Norm Bergama.

VACCINATION TIME AT COMMENCEMENT

Other Rogers (left) and Jefferson Ross, right, work together to show the quickest way of vaccinating a pig during commencement exercises at Piney Woods School. Vaccination is only one of the many practical skills learned at the school.—Daily News Staff Photos by Norm Bergama.